

Preface & Editor's Note

Electronic Journal of Social and Strategic Studies is one year old. We are delighted to note that in this first year we have passed some milestones that are noteworthy for a new research journal. To list them briefly:

- We are supposed to have three Issues and we are clocking our fourth with this Issue.
- We are delighted mention that our collaborative webinars with some of India's best-known institutions enabled the publication of Special Issues containing papers presented in them. We have four such Special Issues online!
- 64 Research papers and book reviews from some of the leading scholars in their fields as well as emerging student-scholars render the quality of our publications highly scientific.
- Our website reveals over 9000 downloads of our publications and we have over 330,000 visitors.
- We are a member journal of Crossref.
- We are happy to receive our ISSN online: 2582-9645.

In some ways, this Issue is also unique. We may actually say that it is a hybrid for it contains 07 regular contributions, 02 papers presented in a webinar we organized and 01 book reviews written by one of our interns! In keeping with our policy to promote young and emerging scholars, we are happy to include the book review of our intern, after having it reviewed by an Editor.
